ABOUT KINGING COIN

KINGING COIN is a proposed high leverage liquidity acquisition and staking protocol built on the BINANCE SMARTCHAIN MAIN NET.

KINGING COIN is a community of the KINGISH Decentralized digital financial ecosystem that addresses the issue of scalability. Because cryptocurrencies have scalability issues, they might not be able to handle large numbers of transactions at once. As a result, it might be challenging to use them for routine transactions because they might take too long to process and finish.

This is a token with exceptional quality of both deflationary and re-distribution mechanism as a major price driving force. As a reliable financial instrument for store of values and convenient for transactions, $KNGC is specifically designed to be the best choice for digital financial security and digital treasury for ultimate financial planning purposes.

From the point of the launch of $KNGC, through liquidity and staking protocol, partnership deals will be created with reputable and well audited meme tokens to create farms and pools with high rewards for the benefit of the $KNGC community.

The emergence of the KINGING COIN token is a revolutionization in the crypto space, which had been characterized by the pump/dump in the meme coin society. This project is meant to stabilize the confidence and hope of the financially excluded majority who are afraid of the instability and non-transparency at the entry point and those that experience different kinds of losses on the point of executing trading in the market field of cryptocurrency world.

THE PROBLEM

Cryptocurrencies have the power to fundamentally alter the way that we think about money and call into question the very validity of established financial systems. Investors run the risk of losing money because cryptocurrencies can fluctuate significantly over short periods of time.

Additionally, because of the growing competition for block space, scalability issues may eventually result in higher transaction costs.

Although the adoption of cryptocurrencies has grown, there seems to be a consensus that they will gain popularity over time. The blockchain technology that powers cryptocurrencies has proven to be ground-breaking in a variety of ways, and a wide range of applications are constantly being investigated. $KNGC is the cryptocurrency for now and the future reducing loss of investments and honeypots.
